Full control of your computer, NVR or DVR from different locations.

There are many installations where the computer is placed in a secure room (protected against physical theft), but viewing of the image and control of the computer is required in one or more points in the building. This can be complicated using standard cabling, especially when more than one external location is required. The solution is to convert these signals to IP transmission. HDMIUSBEXT enables the user to connect HDMI and 2 USB via CAT5e or CAT6 cable to a KVMEXTENDER remote receiver. This gives the remote location full control over the PC/NVR/DVR.

By setting up a small network using a GB desktop switch additional KVMEXTENDERS can be added in different locations. When a switch is used distances of 130 meters can be achieved,
